Five to seven days after your interview, you might think to call your interviewer's assistant to ask him or her when you can call your interviewer without inconveniencing him or her.

Before contacting your interviewer, prepare two to five questions that you wish to ask him or her.

Below you will find two lists of questions:

- The worst which will suddenly ruin you and are to be avoided at all costs.
- The best, which will benefit you and elevate your chances.

1 THE WORST QUESTIONS TO ASK AFTER AN INTERVIEW.

1.1 Are your children proud to have a dad who succeeds as well as you do?

1.2 Can you help me get another position?

1.3 Can you put me into contact with another manager in your company?

1.4 Can you tell me if this position is still open or do I have to apply for another position?

1.5 Could I possibly have a second chance?

1.6 Could we re-do our interview, because the last time I was a little too nervous?

1.7 Did you like my CV?

1.8 Did you think that I had a good chance for this position?

1.9 Do you have another open position in a different field?

1.10 Do you remember me?

1.11 Have you already made your decision?

1.12 Have you thought about what I have offered you?

1.13 How did my interview go?

1.14 How did the other interviews that you had go?

1.15 How long should I wait for an answer from you?

1.16 I forget to ask, do you give meal tickets to salaried workers?

1.17 I really want to keep our friendship in the future!

1.18 Is there another open position in your company?

1.19 What did my references say about me when you called them?

1.20 What did you think of the other candidates for the position?

1.21 What kind of salary and bonuses do you offer?

1.22 When do you think you will give me news?

1.23 When is the next interview?

1.24 When may I start?

1.25 Where is this position?

1.26 Would it be possible to have an interview with your superior, boss, or manager?

2 THE BEST QUESTIONS TO ASK AFTER AN INTERVIEW

2.1 About the article that I sent you three days ago, I would like to know...

2.2 After our first interview, I thought about the priorities that your company addresses...Could we meet again to clarify some points?

2.3 After our last discussion, I did some research and I discovered...

2.4 Do you think that the activity of your competitors could encumber the strategy of your organization in the long term?

2.5 Do you think that the new competitors that you talked about could affect the strategy that we discussed?

2.6 During our interview, you highlighted... as essential for the growth of your company. Could you please elaborate on this point?

2.7 Have you had the time to read the article that we talked about?

2.8 Have you thought about using the system... to address the challenge presented...?

2.9 I could read... about your organization. In your opinion, what effect could this have on our project?

2.10 I discovered that the ABC company had successfully implemented XYZ strategy. Have you tried to do it?

2.11 I found 2 strategies to address what we talked about during our interview. Do you think that this could jeopardize or change the priorities of the project?

2.12 If we take into account the latest news on your field, do you think that it could hamper your operations?

2.13 Recently, I attentively read the details about the new investments that your company is planning on making in China. Could I ask you what are some of the main risks/challenges that your company will have to face?

2.14 Was the information that I sent you in my last email helpful to you?

2.15 What are the development programs that could have an impact on the position that you interviewed me for?

2.16 What did you think of the article that I sent you? Did you find it interesting?

2.17 What did you think of the information that was published in the XYZ magazine?

2.18 What positive impact, event...will it have on your company?

2.19 What was the original idea for the marketing campaign that you launched at the beginning of the week?

2.20 While reading the newspaper, I discovered this idea... Do you think that it could be useful to your company or for the project that we discussed?